Dr. V. is proud anti-Semitism has abated

SUNDAY TIMES Reporter

COPYRIGHT CAPE TOWN, Saturday

THE PRIME MINISTER, Dr. Verwoerd, has told Mr. Saul E. Joffes, director of the office of international affairs of the Bnei Brith, that he is proud that anti-Semitism in South Africa has abated since the Nationalist Government came to power in 1948.

Mr. Joffes paid a courtesy call on Dr. Verwoerd in Cape Town this week.

Dr. Verwoerd told Mr. Joffes that Jews of South Africa had contributed a lot to the country, and would continue to do so.

The Bnei Brith is an international Jewish lodge and welfare organisation with headquarters in America.

Mr. Joffes is in South Africa to establish new Bnei Brith lodges.

"The Bnei Brith concerns itself not only with Jewish charitable work, but also with the safeguarding of human rights, no matter where they may be violated," Mr. Joffes said. "The Bnei Brith helped to alleviate the plight of Jews behind the Iron Curtain."
